

Personal Finance Scorecard

No matter what your needs are, planning for the future is important, and your CPA financial planner can help. It's good to have a realistic picture of your finances, your goals and what you might be overlooking. Start now by filling out this personal finance scorecard.

How to use the scorecard:

Review each question carefully. If you answer "yes" give yourself one point. If you answer "no" or are in doubt, give yourself a 0 so that you can identify areas for improvement. At the end of each category, work with your CPA financial planner to determine what steps to take next to help improve your score.

Consider reviewing the scorecard on an annual basis to see progress and new areas that may need revisiting based on changes in your life.

The AICPA's Personal Financial Planning (PFP) Division created this scorecard. Your CPA is dedicated to helping you reach your financial goals, as well as to their own continuing education and excellence. CPAs who are AICPA PFP Section members have access to a library of tools and resources, such as this scorecard, that help them better communicate with and serve their important clients like you.
